CHARGED BY A RHINOCEROS.

AGiLE S'I traveller and sportsman relates that on one occasion while hunting rinoceros, having wounded one, she charged suddenly, and knocled him down, but fortmately missing iner stroke with her horn she went fainly orer him, leaving him to strugrle out from between her hind legs. Scarcely had she passed when sha turned and succeeded in cutting lim from knee to hip with her horn and lmocking him orer mith a bluw from her foot. She might easily. have completed her rerenge, but she plunged into a thicket and let her victim escape. Meeting her again on ti:e same day, the sportsman gave her several bullets, and she fill. He walked up and was just gois: to malio sure she was dead when she again leaped to ber feet. He hastily fired and rushed away, pursued by the infuriated animal, which, however, fell cland just as he threw himseli into a bush for safetr. The race wis such a close one that as he lay he could touch the rhinoceros with his rifle, so that anvider moment would have lueen fitial to lim.

$$
\begin{aligned}
& \text { Chutterbux. Lenion } \\
& \text { Sahuidny & Nicvinter NGE illu: } 52 \text { paye } 52
\end{aligned}
$$

Charged by a Rhinoceros.

