St. Louis - Missouri - U.S.A.

The St. Louis Zoo is seeking authority to issue revenue bonds to finance several projects including purchase of the Zoo Line miniature railroad.

According to Howard F. Baer, president of the Zoological Board of Control, the board has an option to purchase the Zoo Line for about US$ 485,000. He said that the zoo receives about US$ 75,000 a year in revenue from the railroad and that the yearly profits would amount to about US$ 225,000 if the zoo owned the railroad.
