ditburgh, Nov. 27 EGYPTIAN HALL, PICCADILLY, LONDON, 261 H Nov. 1819. BULLOCK has the honour of informing the Nobility, Gentry, and Public, that, encouraged by the success of his late undertaking to sell in person the various and valyable contents of his Museum of Natural History and the Fine Arts, he has commenced the general business of an AUCHONNER, and for that purpose fitted up the EGYPTIAN HALL, the the London Museum; N-Piccadilly, in a style of creat elegance. This extensive edifice now coursins by far the largest and most convenient suite of IE Apartments for general Trade in the Metropolis, and presents a most for either public or private ade, on a scale which has not heretofore existed. The Premis-s contain upwards of sixteen kundred feet in length of wall, the whole of which is 3 laid out and arranged for the display of articles on sale in a manner the best smited for the mutual interests of the buyer and seller. The great Apartment, lately occupied by the and Museum, is fitted up in a style of corresponding Architecture with the exterior of the building, and is probably the finest Egyptian Chamber in existence; it is sixty feet in length, by forty feet in height. Tids splendid Apartment will be solely y. devoted for the Exhibition of Natural History, Works of in Art, &c. on Private Sale, which will be arranged in the most RN suitable manner for public inspection 11 The situation of the Egyptian Hall, in the centre of the u. court end of town, and of all the fashionable Promenades, has m. already given this building greater notoriety and attraction .5 than perhaps any other in the metropolis, and the best arld. nhos rangements will be made to conduct the business on a scale Roo Tiel in the highest degree liberal and respectable. ne Plac Mr BULLOCK's constant habits of business in his long connexion, during the formation of his late Museum, with the T ve ber, must celebrated scientific characters and collectors of articles urv. of rarity and curiosity all over Europe, will, it is presumed, present an advantage in the highest degree beneficial to the till t proprietors of works of science and art, who may be disposed to offer them for sole at his new Establishment. No personal exertion on the part of the proprietor shall be wanting to G fulfil the wishes of those who may honour him with their he confidence and commands.
