

ZOO SCAPE

The Los Angeles Zoo Member Newsletter

AUGUST /
SEPTEMBER
2003

Zooscape (ISSN 10603859) is published monthly, except bimonthly Aug./Sept. and Dec./Jan., by the Greater Los Angeles Zoo Association, 5333 Zoo Drive, Los Angeles, CA 90027. 323/644-6400 www.lazoo.org
Periodical Postage paid at Los Angeles, CA.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Zooscape, 5333 Zoo Drive, Los Angeles, CA 90027-1498

Andalus Summer

At the Los Angeles Zoo, appreciating the big picture is important. On numerous occasions cherished members of the Zoo's collection have been sent to other zoos at the recommendation of conservation programs such as the American Zoo and Aquarium Association's Species Survival Plan (SSP). Transferring such beloved residents as Caesar the silverback Western lowland gorilla, African elephant Ruby, and Embam the Sumatran rhino to distant zoos is difficult for the people who care for and about them. But the reward of learning to let individual animals go is the satisfaction of seeing their species fare well.

In 1984, the Los Angeles Zoo joined forces with the Indonesian government and three other U.S. zoos (Cincinnati Zoo, the Bronx Zoo, and the San Diego Zoo) to form the Sumatran Rhino Trust (SRT). The goal of the trust was to establish a U.S. breeding program with animals captured in the dwindling rain forests of Indonesia, as well as raise funds to help support the Indonesian government's conservation efforts. Between 1987 and 1991, seven Sumatran rhinos came to the participating zoos. Unfortunately, the San Diego Zoo's breeding attempts did not yield any calves, and Mahatu, the female in Cincinnati, proved to be much older than anyone suspected and died in 1992.

In 1996, the decision was made to send Embam (or Emi as she had come to be known) from Los Angeles to Cincinnati in hopes that she and resident male Ipuh would produce young. At the time it was agreed that if these efforts were successful, the first offspring would come to the Los Angeles Zoo. Five years later, in September of 2001, Emi gave birth to a hairy male calf—the first born in captivity in more than a century—named Andalus (after the original name of the island of Sumatra).

Earlier this year Andalus was well on his way to being weaned, when Cincinnati veterinarians confirmed that Emi was pregnant again. It was time for the youngster to relocate.

On the morning of Friday, June 20, Andalus arrived at the L.A. Zoo accompanied by Head Rhino Keeper Paul Reinhart from the Cincinnati Zoo and began settling down in his new enclosure (formerly the home of the anoas). Usually new animals undergo quarantine in the Zoo's state-of-the-art quarantine center (which is approved by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention), but veterinarians decided that Andalus could be quarantined in his barn so that he would only have to be transferred once.

Sumatran rhinos, the smallest species of rhinoceros, are distinguished by their two horns and shaggy red hair that grows in patches on their hides.

"[This species] has pretty much not changed since the Oligocene era, which ended about 30 million years ago," explains Michael Dee, Los Angeles Zoo General Curator and coordinator of the Greater Asian One-Horned Rhinoceros SSP.

"The woolly rhino was found in Europe, and it was very similar in appearance to this particular animal," Dee says. "The surprising thing is, most of the time you think of hairy animals as being from a colder climate. This animal is from a really hot, humid climate. In almost all the wild photographs that I have ever seen—and I have seen a lot of them—they almost look like they're bare-naked, no hair on them whatsoever. But going through the forest they're constantly rubbing against

Photo by David Jenike/Cincinnati Zoo

Andalus will turn 2 in September, but he already has the patches of red fur that distinguish the Sumatran rhino.

leaves and trees so it disappears. It gets scraped off. But in captivity, they're not racing through the forest so it has a tendency to grow longer."

As is too often the case in developing regions of the world, the economic growing pains of southeast Asia are straining natural resources throughout what was once the Sumatran rhino's range. Turbulent market forces of the last few decades in Indonesian history have brought about dramatic changes for the 200 million-plus people who inhabit the world's largest archipelago, and those changes have in turn had a drastic impact on the wildlife with which they share it. Dee has seen firsthand evidence of the damage done by unsustainable resource management.

"When we first looked into this 20 years ago, the thought was there were upward of 3,000 Sumatran rhinos in the wild," he says. "Now there may be as few as 300. And they once had a fairly extensive range—all of Indonesia, Sumatra, and Borneo; the entire Malaysian peninsula, Thailand, Myanmar, even up into Vietnam, Laos, and Cambodia. The big problem is that the animals are now in fragmented forest areas, or they've been driven up to higher elevations (if they haven't been killed) because the lowland rain forest is being cut. As soon as a logging road goes into an area, then everything in its path becomes potential food or an opportunity for target practice. The initial animals captured for the breeding program were found in areas that were due to be clear-cut. In 1985 I was able to fly over some forests in Sumatra and I couldn't believe it. All this forest had been cut down and burned—and for what? So they could put oil palm plantations in. Not good, not good at all."

continued on page 3

In This Issue

Photo by Bruce Galvin

Members, Keepers, and Creatures

See page 2

Photo by Bill Edwards

Green Scene

See page 2

Photo by Eric Wilmarth

New Zoo Director

See page 3

Photo by Tad Motoyama

Animal Activities

See page 2

Make It A Date

LATINO HERITAGE MONTH CELEBRATION

Join us for a special celebration of Latino Heritage Month as the Zoo commemorates Mexican Independence Day. Eucalyptus Grove will buzz with festivities including mariachi music, folk dancing, crafts demonstrations, and keeper close-ups. We'll celebrate that on September 16, 1810, Father Miguel Hidalgo y Costilla gave a call to arms that inspired the people of Mexico to fight for freedom from Spanish rule. Even the animals will get into the act, enjoying piñatas filled with their favorite treats. This event is free to members and with paid Zoo admission for nonmembers.

September 13 and 14 (Sat. and Sun.)
10 a.m.-4 p.m.

Photo by Tad Motoyama

ACTIVITIES

ANIMAL

At Your Zoo

June 1-30

BIRTHS & HATCHINGS

- 0/0/2 California condors
- 0/0/3 Egyptian spiny mice
- 0/1 gerenuk

ARRIVALS

- 0/1 red kangaroo
- 1/0 Sumatran rhino
- 0/0/20 blind cave fish
- 4/0/1 California condors

DEPARTURES

- 2/0 California condors

Egyptian spiny mouse

Key:

4/0/1 California condors = 4 male, 0 female, and 1 condor of unknown sex

UPDATE

ZOO

By Connie Morgan
GLAZA President

The Los Angeles Zoo is an amazing cultural resource, with animals and plants from around the globe. A universally accessible urban park, it invites everyone, regardless of age, race, color, or language, to enjoy its collections. Our richly landscaped campus is a place where visitors discover the beauty of nature and wildlife, and learn about the role each of us plays in the vast circle of life.

The opportunities for exploration are almost limitless, as this summer's scores of ZooCampers can attest. In ZooCamp classes, preschoolers through tenth-graders learned about biomes, habitats, animal adaptations, and diet, among other subjects. And it wasn't only kids who were doing the learning. At this year's Music in the L.A. Zoo evenings, family members of all ages enjoyed live music while visiting their favorite Zoo residents, and guests of all ages answered the call to "Go Wild" by getting into special live entertainment, celebrity readers, activity books, and crafts all summer long. Later this fall, families will be able to pack picnics, come to the Zoo, and relax at the Neil Papiano Play Park—a universally accessible play park located right here on Zoo grounds.

Members, Keepers, and Creatures

Animal Keeper Stephanie Zielinski gets a big wet one from Rocky the sea lion.

You won't want to miss these very special mornings designed to thank you for your support of the Los Angeles Zoo. On Saturday, September 20, and Sunday, September 21, we will open the Zoo bright and early at 8 a.m. for Zoo members only.

These special mornings feature scheduled feedings, keeper talks, and enrichment presentations, as well as crafts for our younger members. This is your opportunity to greet our animals when they are at their best and to meet the keepers who care for them.

There is no charge for this members-only event, and participation is limited to members and those who qualify under your membership type. No guest passes will be honored for this event.

Volume XXVII, Number 3

Greater Los Angeles Zoo Association Annual Memberships: Individual $45, Couple $55, Family $65, Keepers Club $100, Contributor $150, Wildlife Associate $250, Conservation Circle $500. Zooscape subscription only: $5/year. Each membership category includes unlimited admission to the Los Angeles Zoo for one year, one-year subscriptions to Zoo View and Zooscape, 10 percent discount at Zoo restaurants and shops, and invitations to special events. Students and seniors receive $10 off an annual membership.

The Los Angeles Zoo is located in Griffith Park at the junction of the Ventura (134) and the Golden State (I-5) freeways. The Zoo is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, except December 25. For information, call 323/644-6400, or visit us on the Internet at www.lazoo.org.

Sandy Masuo, Editor
Claire O'Brien, Director of Publications
Urban Ink, Graphic Design and Production
Tad Motoyama, Zoo Photographer
Copyright © 2003 GLAZA. All rights reserved.
Printed on recycled paper.

Nurturing wildlife and enriching the human experience

SCENE

GREEN

The mating game is not limited to the animal kingdom. Many of the oldest surviving plant species (some dating to the Jurassic period) are "dioecious," meaning separate male and female individuals occur in the population. Date palms, marijuana, edible figs, holly, and cycads are among the best-known dioecious plants.

The cycads in front of Zoo Grill are still exhibiting botanical passion. The male plants' cones are bursting with pollen. The female's nest-like sporophylls are a bit spent, but still contain some red ovules, or fruit. Ginkgo biloba trees are also dioecious, and the female tree near the aquatics bridge is currently bearing fruit. As it ripens, a distinct aroma (like rancid butter) develops.

Flowering plants are busy too: The tipu tree near Zoo Grill; the cape chestnuts by the gerenuks; the Bidwell's coral tree near Treetops Terrace (a hummingbird magnet); and the massive century plant by the Reptile House are all in bloom. You can also catch the last of the native blooms that edge the parking lot: Cleveland sage, sea lavender, and California and Matilija poppies.

California poppy

MEMBERS, KEEPERS, AND CREATURES RESERVATION FORM

Please check your choice of day:

Saturday, September 20 8-10:30 a.m.

Sunday, September 21 8-10:30 a.m.

___ Total child reservations requested

___ Total adult reservations requested

(Number limited to those included in membership level)

Name: _____ Member #: _____

Address: _____ City: _____ State: ___ Zip: _____

Daytime Phone: () _____

Please mail reservation form and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to:

Members, Keepers, and Creatures

GLAZA, 5333 Zoo Drive
Los Angeles, CA 90027-1498

Online reservation available at www.lazoo.org

Annual Meeting Scheduled

Members are invited to attend the Annual Meeting of the Greater Los Angeles Zoo Association in the Grand Room of the Andrew Norman Education Building on Thursday, September 18, at 11:30 a.m. Items of business will include election of trustees and a review of events that occurred between July 1, 2002, and June 30, 2003. Nominees for re-election for three-year terms are: Lorraine Freeberg, Paul Grossman, Phyllis Kupferstein, Ezekiel Patten, Jr., Bob Ruth, Jonathan Y. Thomas, and Mary Grigsby Urquhart.

PROXY

Know all persons by these present: That, I, the undersigned, have made, constituted, and appointed Lori Winters Samuels of La Cañada, California, my proxy to represent me at the Annual Meeting of the Greater Los Angeles Zoo Association to be held on Thursday, September 18, 2003, at 11:30 a.m., and at any or all adjournments thereof, hereby granting unto said Lori Winters Samuels all the powers that I would possess if personally present at said meeting or at any or all adjournments thereof. Should I be present, this proxy shall be void.

Name: _____

Mail to:

Address: _____

City: _____

State/Zip: _____

Signature: _____

Date: _____

Lori Winters Samuels, Secretary
c/o Greater L.A. Zoo Association
5333 Zoo Drive
Los Angeles, CA 90027-1498

Connecting people and wildlife is a powerful experience because it provides new perspectives on life in all its forms—plant, animal, and human. These connections are the heart of our Education programming—both formal and informal—and the reason the Zoo is working so diligently to upgrade its facilities and exhibits. The more positive an experience visiting the Zoo is, the more lasting the impression will be. Now more than ever, it is imperative that visitors—children and adults, young and old—see the vital links between nature and science so that we can conserve our resources for the future.

When complete, the Children's Discovery Center will underscore these themes to the 1.5 million-plus people who visit us annually. Through exhibits, programs, and a variety of learning experiences, Zoo guests will come to understand the needs of living things. It will also provide a way to connect with animals, with nature, and with each other. Just as families come to the Zoo to enjoy a day together, very soon visitors will come to engage in the interactive learning that will make the Discovery Center such a dynamic experience.

As it takes shape, the Discovery Center will offer special opportunities for patrons to show their support of our expanding horizons. One particularly colorful option is the Discovery Tile program. It offers patrons the chance to commemorate their love of the Los Angeles Zoo, or of animals by creating a unique tile that will be mounted outside the auditorium at the Children's Discovery Center. We invite you to tap into the artist within you, create your own tile, and leave a lasting impression of your own connection to the Los Angeles Zoo. I can think of no better way to celebrate the Zoo and the shape of the amazing things to come.

Ten Minutes with John Lewis

Transitions are always a challenge, and new Los Angeles Zoo Director John Lewis will be moving into his new job at a particularly challenging time in California and Zoo history. But Lewis is amply prepared. Over the course of his career, the 51-year-old has accrued almost 30 years of zoo experience starting with his first appointment in 1974 as Primate Supervisor at Louisiana Purchase Gardens and Zoo. For nearly 20 years he has been a member of the American Zoo and Aquarium Association, serving on myriad committees and task forces culminating in presidency of the organization. During the last week in June, Lewis began preparing for his first day as L.A. Zoo Director on July 1. After a day full of introductions and meetings he took a few minutes to share his thoughts and impressions.

Q: Have you spent much time in Los Angeles before now or will this be a big adventure?

A: It's going to be a great adventure. Most of the time I was here for meetings, so the airport and the Zoo are most of what I'm familiar with. My family and I are excited. We're looking forward to exploring Los Angeles and the entire state of California, learning and having a good time.

Q: What's your game plan for the Zoo?

A: The first thing is to understand it. I told the senior staff during a meeting today that I'm an experiential learner. That means I have to get into it and really understand how things work. I'm going to spend much of my first few weeks here learning to understand the L.A. Zoo and what we're all about. I'm going to get up to speed with all the construction projects and then look at all the programs to see where they're successful and where we can be better, how to support the staff and the people so they can do their jobs well. That's what I'm looking forward to.

Q: Is this a departure for you? Have you worked in publicly funded zoos before?

A: All my experience has been in governmental zoos. I've worked at a city zoo, a state zoo, and a county zoo so I've done a little bit of everything.

Q: How do they differ?

A: They do in the way they're managed. This will be my fourth state as well, and the way the government works and the expectations of the local community all vary so it will be a new learning experience. I'm looking forward to that as well.

Q: This is a challenging time to come here, between the new construction at the Zoo and the state budget crisis.

A: We have that in Michigan too. Michigan is facing a big budget deficit. We're county-funded where I worked before, and while it doesn't have a direct impact on our general fund it does through revenue sharing from the state and programs that are supported directly from the state, so we'll be feeling it as well.

Photo by Eric Wilmarth

New Los Angeles Zoo Director John Lewis comes to Southern California from the John Ball Zoo in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Q: How many children do you have?

A: My wife Debbie and I have one son still at home, Robert, and two adult kids. Our daughter Jill's out of the house and in school, working in Grand Rapids, and we have a son, Ian, who's 20 and in the army. He's in Iraq right now—about 50 miles west of Baghdad.

Q: A short time ago we ran an article in The Gnu—our employee newsletter—about the plight of the Baghdad Zoo. I guess it's not very high on the priority list in wartime.

A: Animals tend to get forgotten. But David Jones, who is the director of the North Carolina Zoo, is someone who really championed the drive to help the Afghan Zoo when that campaign was going on. David's involved in coordinating AZA zoos and aquariums to help support the Baghdad Zoo as much as we can until the people's lives get stabilized.

Q: Do you know where you'll be living here?

A: We don't know yet. We've been looking for the last three days kind of up in the northern part of the city, all the way up into Valencia and Santa Clarita. We've covered a lot of distance and we've seen some nice places. We're excited about the possibilities.

Andalus Summer (cont'd.)

But thanks to the persistence of conservationists, scientists, and animal care experts, there may still be time to turn the tables on the dwindling Sumatran rhino population. In the years that have passed since those first seven rhinos came to the United States, zoologists and animal keepers have gained a wealth of knowledge not only from animals in captivity but from field researchers observing Sumatran rhinos in the wild. Andalus' exhibit is spacious and shady, and he will be fed a diet based on the types of browse his wild relatives consume. With the right care and some luck, when he reaches maturity in five or six years the SSP will be able to find him a suitable mate.

"We're still part of the Sumatran rhino breeding program," Dee says. "The hope is that once Andalus is old enough, a female will become available, possibly overseas. If by that time the Indonesians or Malaysians are able to breed them, that would be wonderful."

MEMBER TOURS

Keep up-to-date with the latest happenings at your Zoo by enjoying a docent-led tour. These fun and informative tours are our way of thanking you for your invaluable support through membership, and are free for everyone eligible on your membership. To register, call the membership services division at 323/644-4244, fill out the form below, or register online at www.lazoo.org.

Member Tours, GLAZA
5333 Zoo Drive
Los Angeles, CA 90027-1498

Name: _____
 Member #: _____
 Address: _____
 City/State/Zip: _____
 Daytime Phone: _____

Saturday, Aug. 2, at 10:30 a.m. _____
 Sunday, Aug. 10, at 10:30 a.m. _____ or 1 p.m. _____
 Saturday, Aug. 16, at 10:30 a.m. _____ or 1 p.m. _____
 Sunday, Aug. 17, at 10:30 a.m. _____ or 1 p.m. _____
 Saturday, Sept. 6, at 10:30 a.m. _____ or 1 p.m. _____
 Sunday, Sept. 14, at 10:30 a.m. _____ or 1 p.m. _____

Please make reservations for:
 ___ (up to 2) people eligible on my Couple Membership ___ adults (up to 2) and ___ children eligible on my Family, Keepers Club, or Contributor Membership

THANK YOU!

The following individuals, corporations, and foundations have graciously contributed to the Los Angeles Zoo in May. The Association gratefully acknowledges their generous gifts and pledges.

$100,000-$499,999

Neil Papiano and Sharon Thralls
 William Randolph Hearst Foundation

$50,000-$99,999

Gabriel and Deborah Brener
 Hoag Family Foundation
 The Wasserman Foundation

$10,000-$24,999

Mr. Andrew F. Barth and
 Mrs. Avery B. Barth
 Fuji Photo Film U.S.A., Inc.
 ICEE-USA
 J. Paul Getty Trust
 Kaiser Permanente

$5,000-$9,999

Margot and Mark Armbruster
 Bakers Man Productions, LLC
 Mr. William Bisset and
 Ms. Donna Zenor
 Mr. and Mrs. Larry P. Clemmensen
 Private Wealth Management
 Dr. Anita and Mr. Richard Dunsay
 Earl B. Gilmore Foundation
 The Anthony L. Federico Family
 Mr. Tom F. Mankiewicz
 Ms. Sandra Moss
 Diana L. Nathanson
 Northrop Grumman Corporation
 Ostin Family Foundation
 Playa Capital Company
 Mr. and Mrs. Fermo Rossi
 Mr. Robert Ruth
 Madeline and Elliott Taft
 Mr. Brian Walsh

$2,500-$4,999

Patricia and Stephen Chazen
 Katzenberg Foundation
 Eugenia Riordan Mulé
 Mr. Skip Paul
 Proprietary Media, Inc.
 See's Candies, Inc.
 Sidney Stern Memorial Trust
 Analee and Bud Yorkshire

$1,000-$2,499

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Biondi
 James W. and Nancy Blanco
 Juanita Buck
 Cap Gemini Ernst & Young
 Mr. Donald Carter
 Mr. and Mrs. Ed Clark
 Disney Worldwide Services, Inc.
 Mr. and Mrs. Stephen D. Engel
 Forest Lawn Mortuary
 Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Garson
 Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gast
 Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Ginsberg
 Mr. and Mrs. Martin Granoff
 Mr. and Mrs. Bill Greer
 Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hersh
 Kathleen Inman
 Jean and Terry R. Kay
 Dr. and Mrs. Paul A. Levine
 Mr. and Mrs. Bruce A. Linden
 Dr. Colleen Moryl
 Mr. Jeffrey A. Nason
 Mr. Richard M. Nordin
 Joan Palevsky
 Mr. and Mrs. David A. Poms
 Marylee C. Reeder
 Robert and Sheril Freedman
 Foundation Inc.
 Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ronus
 Ted Samuels and
 Lori Winters Samuels
 Lori and Dan Sandel
 Mrs. J. Vincent Schlegel
 Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. Semler
 The Sheinberg Foundation
 Patricia and Stanley Silver
 Mr. John B. Simon and
 Ms. Liona Boyd Simon
 Charlene and Burton Sperber
 Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sutphen
 Ms. Mary Ann Weisberg
 Weiser & Associates
 Joan M. Wismer

CALENDAR OF EVENTS

GO WILD ABOUT SUMMER

Go Wild About Summer at the Los Angeles Zoo! Celebrities and media personalities will read books to children every weekend through Labor Day at Eucalyptus Grove, where there will also be daily puppet shows. (For a schedule of readers, please visit our website at www.lazoo.org.) Plus, we're staying open late till 6 p.m. all summer long. Free with paid Zoo admission through Labor Day 10 a.m.-6 p.m.

L.A. ZOO CAREER DAY

If you've ever thought about working with or around animals, this is your day. Zookeepers, educators, curators, and veterinary staff will talk about what paths they took to break into their chosen fields, and answer your questions. To register, please call 323/644-4211 and press "0."

August 9 (Saturday) 1-5 p.m.

Member participant: $10
Nonmember participant: $15
Parent/chaperone: $5

LATINO HERITAGE MONTH CELEBRATION

The L.A. Zoo celebrates Mexican Independence Day with a weekend of festivities on September 13 and 14. For details, see "Make It a Date" on page 1 of this issue.

WILD WONDER SLUMBER

African Treasures

Take a walk on the wild side during Wild Wonder Slumber, a fun-filled family overnight adventure. Explore the Zoo after dark by taking a special guided tour, during which you'll discover African treasures—animals, music, and art. You bring your sleeping bag, we provide the tents and the fun! To register, please call 323/644-4253.

October 4 (Saturday)

Members: $67 adult,
$47 ages 3-12
Nonmembers: $90 adult,
$65 ages 3-12
Children ages 2 and younger free

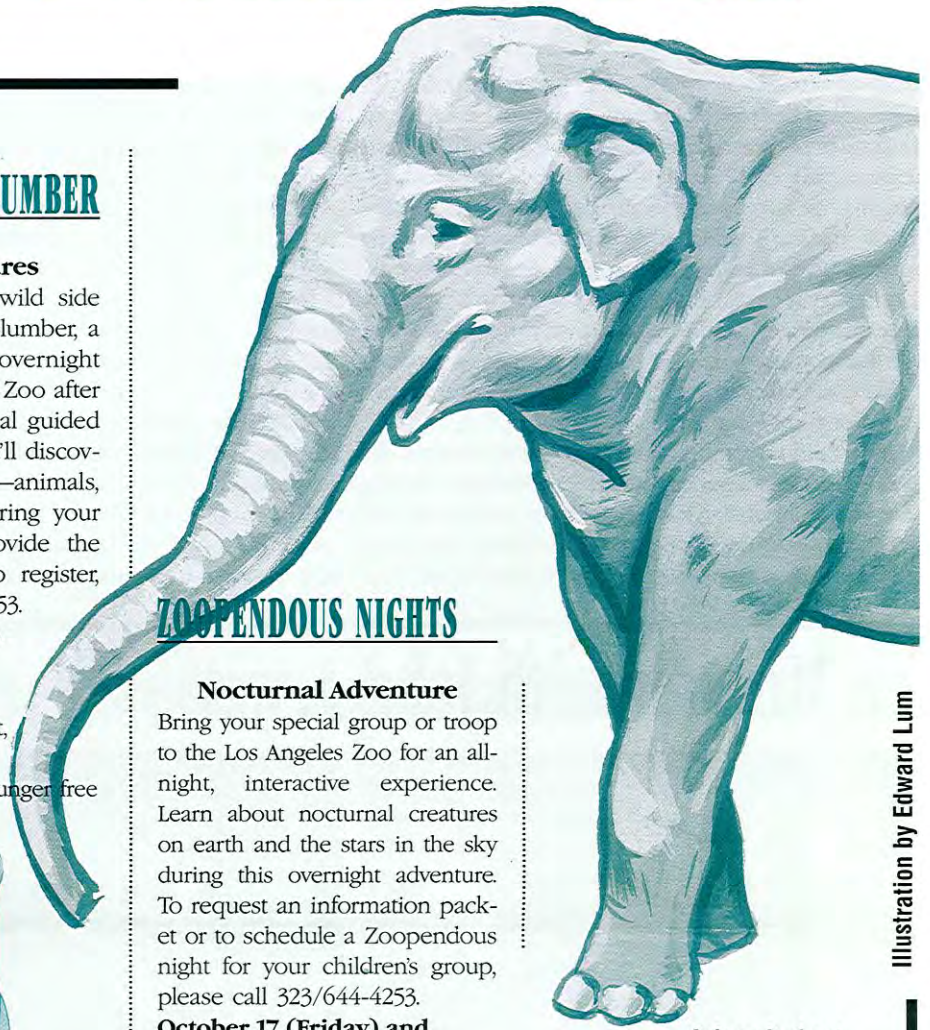

ZOOPENDOUS NIGHTS

Nocturnal Adventure

Bring your special group or troop to the Los Angeles Zoo for an all-night, interactive experience. Learn about nocturnal creatures on earth and the stars in the sky during this overnight adventure. To request an information packet or to schedule a Zoopendous night for your children's group, please call 323/644-4253.

October 17 (Friday) and November 15 (Saturday)

Asian elephant

Illustration by Edward Lum

EDUCATIONAL ADVENTURES (Preregistration and prepayment is required for all education programs.)

TODDLER TOTES

Age 2, with an adult
Members: $11 child/adult pair
Nonmembers: $13 child/adult pair
Additional member: $6
Additional nonmember: $8
Class times: 9:15 and 10:30 a.m.

These playful, 40-minute-long classes include circle time, story time, and a special animal guest before heading out on a tour of the Zoo.

The Nose Knows

Come sniff out the different noses and whiskers of our animal friends at the Zoo.

September 9, 11, and 14 (Tues., Thurs., and Sun.)

Due to their popularity, Toddler Totes classes are not available for same-day registration. For the most recent updates on classes, please visit www.lazoo.org.

CRITTERS 'N' KIDS

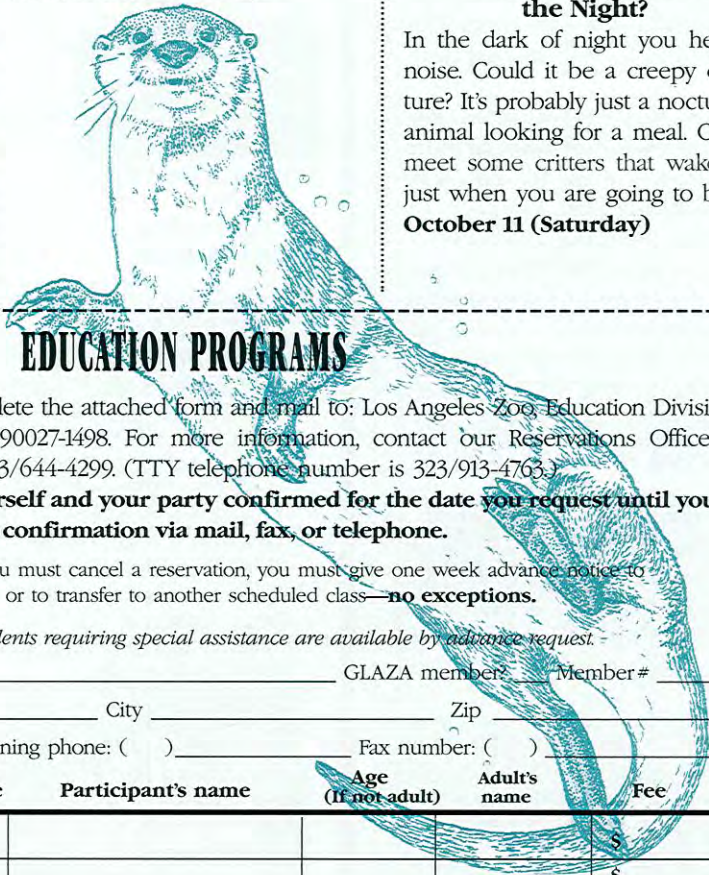

Ages 3 to 4, with an adult
Members: $20 child/adult pair
Nonmembers: $24 child/adult pair
Class times: 10 a.m. weekdays, 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. weekends

These 90-minute-long interactive classes include circle time, creative crafts, snacks, and a special guided Zoo tour.

Splish Splash

It's an otter in the water! Over there—the polar bear! Come find out who's splishin' and splashin' all over the Zoo during this fun creature class.

September 20, 22, and 23 (Sat., Mon., and Tues.)

ZOOKAPERS

Ages 5 to 6, child only
Members: $19 Nonmembers: $24
Class time: 9:30 a.m.-noon

Each class focuses on a different habitat and its creatures, and includes circle time, activities, snack, and a Zoo tour.

In Your Own Backyard

Who's that creature making a racket on the porch? Is it making a mess or recycling your trash? Learn all about city slicker critters and discover the chaparral habitat in your own backyard.

September 27 (Saturday)

What Goes Bump in the Night?

In the dark of night you hear a noise. Could it be a creepy creature? It's probably just a nocturnal animal looking for a meal. Come meet some critters that wake up just when you are going to bed.

October 11 (Saturday)

ZOO EXPLORERS

Ages 7 to 10, child only
Members: $18 Nonmembers: $23
Class time: 9:30 a.m.-noon

Reptile Rally

Can you eat your meals without using your hands? Will you keep growing all of your life? Can you walk up glass and across ceilings? Of course not! But you could if you were a reptile. Come learn more fascinating facts about those scaly, slithering animals known as reptiles.

September 27 (Saturday)

ADULTS ONLY

Nuestro Mundo

A feast for your senses awaits during this epicurean overnight adventure at the Zoo. Enjoy exotic foods and wine tasting while you discover the unique riches and resources of Nuestro Mundo—Our World. Tantalizing tastes and tents are included. To register, please call 323/644-4253.

September 27 (Saturday)
Members: $85 per adult
Nonmembers: $100 per adult

MEMBERS ONLY

Members, Keepers, and Creatures

As our way of thanking you for your support, the Los Angeles Zoo presents Members, Keepers, and Creatures. For more information on how to get an up-close and personal Zoo experience, see page 2 of this issue.

September 20 and 21 (Saturday and Sunday)

Member Tours

Join us for a tour of the Zoo led by one of our knowledgeable docents. These tours are available to Zoo members only, and are free for everyone eligible on your membership. To reserve a space, please fill out the form on page 3 and mail it to us by the Friday before the tour. No confirmations will be mailed. For further information or to reserve by phone, please call 323/644-4244. You may also register online at www.lazoo.org. Tours take place on the following dates:

Saturday, August 2
Sunday, August 10
Saturday, August 16
Sunday, August 17
Saturday, September 6
Sunday, September 14

(Please meet at the tables in front of the Safari Café.)

EDUCATION PROGRAMS

Registration is easy—please complete the attached form and mail to: Los Angeles Zoo, Education Division, 5333 Zoo Drive, Los Angeles, CA 90027-1498. For more information, contact our Reservations Office at 323/644-4211, ext. 0, or via fax at 323/644-4299. (TTY telephone number is 323/913-4763.)

You should not consider yourself and your party confirmed for the date you request until you receive confirmation via mail, fax, or telephone.

Cancellation policy: If you must cancel a reservation, you must give one week advance notice to receive a refund or to transfer to another scheduled class—no exceptions.

Accommodations for students requiring special assistance are available by advance request.

Send confirmation to: (adult's name) _____ GLAZA member? _____ Member # _____

Street _____ City _____ Zip _____

Day phone: () _____ Evening phone: () _____ Fax number: () _____

Class Title	Date	Time	Participant's name	Age (if not adult)	Adult's name	Fee
						$
						$
						$
						$
Total Enclosed						$

____ Check enclosed, payable to Department of the Zoo,* or

Visa _____ MasterCard _____ American Express _____ Discover _____ Print card holder's name _____
Expiration Date _____ Card No. _____ Signature _____

*Checks for Zoo Explorers or Adult Workshops should be made payable to GLAZA.

Office use only: confirmation number: _____