
GREAT ARRIVAL.—The Philadelphia wharves were crowded on Friday to witness the landing of a monstrous rhinoceros, from Calcutta, by the way of New York. He is the finest living specimen ever brought to this country. It occupied some fifty men two or three days, to move his majesty to his intended residence, at the zoological Institute, on Walnut street. He is now in comfortable quarters, and ready to receive visits from those who wish to show him their respects.—Phila. Inquirer.
