

—monkeys and apes. Fifty-eight different monkey and ape are in the zoo collection, which includes three widely publicized Gorillas: Al, Bo and the unprecedented breeding pair. A number of rare birds, among them: Alouatta, Golden-bellied, a Celebes Crested, Kikuyu Colobus, Permain's Leaf Monkeys, and others.

ISLAND GIANT—large members of the brown bear group. This is only on Montague Island near William Sound, Alaska.

ERN ELEPHANT—go to the islands off California and Lower California represent one of the elephant seals, the seals. Our young pair last year under Mexican Drs. Gilmore and Ripps Institution ex-Quadalupe Island.

S—seventy different birds, lovebirds, lorries the psittacine group, considered to be one of the finest parrots in the world.

BIGHORN—the horn of bighorn that in desert mountains of California, southern Arizona. Our was provided by the and Game Depart-

GER or HENSEL'S—otted, streaked and from the mountains of South America. Our acted above 14,000 feet, Peru, by Stanton

ETED BREEDING—an Condors, Golden-Debrazza Guenon, Illated Turkeys, Ki-Monkeys, Roosevelt's, Aruba Island Rat-Antelopes, Gray and owls, Hippopotami, fies, Canadian Big- Victoria Crowned, rida Sandhill and Cranes, Cuban Igu-zees, Hawaiian uiana Bush Dogs. alf-pint buffalo from the jungles of Celebes. These miniature oxen are the smallest of the true cattle. Our two pairs belong also on the "coveted breeding pair" list, for they both produce young regularly.

BIRD OF PARADISE EXHIBIT—ten species representing a famous New Guinea-Australian family. Examples of eight species were donated last year by Sir Edward Hallstrom; two others were obtained independently.

In addition to the exhibits we have singled out for special attention, there are many others. Add the following to your check-list, and pay them a visit if you have not already done so: the Jobi Single-wattled Cassowary, King Penguins, Magnificent Frigate Bird, Shoebill, Horned Screammers, Red-breasted Geese, Emperor Goose, Whooper Swans, Plumed Tree Ducks, Andean Crested Ducks, Paradise Shelducks, Andean Geese, Baer's White-eyed Ducks, Pied Geese, the Secretary Bird, the Galapagos Hawk, Hawaiian Hawks, Philippine Monkey-eating Eagles, African Crowned Eagle, Steller's Sea Eagle, Carunculated Caracara, Straight-crested Guinea-fowl, Australian Bustards, three species of trumpeter, Brown-backed Ground Pigeon, Hartlaub's Touracos, Fishing Owls, Spectacled Owl, Boobook Owl, Quetzals, Eared Trogon, Cuban Trogons, four species of hornbill, Blackbilled Rollers, three kinds of cock of the rock, Short-tailed Cissa, Formosan Blue Pie, Green Catbirds, Satin Bowerbirds, Regent Birds, Superb Starling, Coletos, and Jackson's Whydahs;

Tasmanian Gray Kangaroos, Weddell's Tamarin, Formosan Rock Macaques, four Orangutans, Mississippi Valley Red Wolves, Raccoon Dogs, Spectacled Bears, Lesser Pandas, Fishers, Kenai Wolverines, Siamese Hog-badger, Masai Lions, Persian Leopard, Golden Cat, Yukon Lynxes, African Bush Elephant, Saddle-backed Tapirs, Black Rhinos, Pigmy Hippopotamus, Peruvian Vicuñas, Malay Sambar Deer, Anderson's Moose, White-tailed Gnu, Sitatunga, Greater Kudu, Nyala, Angolan Black-backed Duikers, and African Buffalo;

Emerald Tree Boas, Trinidad Tree Boas, Blood Python, King Cobra, Puff Adders, twenty-five year old African Black Cobra, Tortuga Island Rattler, Gaboon Viper,

(Continued on page 7)

The White-crowned Parrot (Pionus senilis decoloratus) is a rarely exhibited denizen of the jungles of Central America.

Sally And Barney

By Myra Glenn

The Black Rhino's enclosure was in for a good washing out on that bright sunny morning. The keeper pushed the hose through the bars and turned on the spray. The inside of the low wall, the hard ground and the mud pool, dear to the heart of Sally, were being washed down when she emerged from her house to see what the noise was about. Without a moment's hesitation she rushed towards the keeper, and tried to get under the water, but he let her have it very gently, just a misty spray at first and then a pelting stream. She let it run over her body, then took a good drink. He put down the hose, and calling her by name, ran around on the outside of the enclosure. She scurried along like a playful dog, keeping up with him on her side. She ran up and down, paying no attention to the mud hole, but going straight through it. Finally he stopped and, saying goodbye very softly, went down the trail. She watched him until he was out of sight.

She ambled over to the fence which separates her from her mate's pen. She put her head up on the wall, and thrust her nose through the bars as far as she could. Barney came over and nuzzled her affectionately. His heavy upper lip extended out into a long slender hook-like finger and he ran it softly over her face and head. She liked it, and he liked her. Suddenly he had an idea, for he left her and went to the pile of green chopped alfalfa food that he had been enjoying. He thrust his head into the mass, and came up with a ridge of it held securely between the horns on the top of his head. Very carefully he walked back to Sally, and laying his head along the top of the wall he let her partake of the delectable treat. She extended her lip and drew the food into

(Continued on page 7)

ZOOLOGICAL

April, 1954

Published monthly by the Zoological Society of San Francisco

Ten Cents an Issue • One Dollar a Year